The Health Service Ombudsman has published a booklet that describes the 'six principles for remedy' in relation to complaints handling and involves:

1. Getting it right
2. Being customer focused
3. Being open and accountable
4. Acting fairly and proportionately
5. Putting things right
6. Seeking continuous improvements

If you remain unhappy after everything has been done to try to resolve your complaint, you have the right to approach the Ombudsman.

This leaflet explains how to contact NHS Nene Clinical Commissioning Group for advice on our services and how to raise a complaint or concern.

Our services include local healthcare policies and funding decisions as well as a range of health care services we commission.

Your Rights

You have the right to raise concerns or complain about health services. Making a complaint will not put your care at risk or adversely affect the way a person is treated. All concerns and complaints are dealt with in the strictest confidence. The Greater East Midlands Commissioning Support Unit handles complaints on behalf of Nene CCG. If you would like to know more about this please contact 01604 651102

Making a complaint or raising a concern

Who? Anyone who receives, or has received NHS services or any person who is likely to be affected by decisions in relation to their NHS healthcare. If

How? In writing, verbally or electronically including a contact telephone number if possible.

When? As soon as possible but no longer than 12 months after the event or 12 months from when you realised you had cause to complain. This time limit is flexible if there is good reason why this could not happen.

Where? Every NHS organisation follows the NHS complaints procedure. You should approach the provider of your healthcare with your complaint as in some cases it will be possible to sort things out quickly. You can also contact Nene Clinical Group directly on 01604 651102

What happens next?

We will do our very best to work with you to resolve the problem if we can. If this is not possible, we will acknowledge your complaint in three working days, giving you the opportunity to discuss with us how your concerns can be handled. This may involve requesting your consent to forward the matter to the relevant organisation to investigate. The organisation will share the outcome of the investigation with you along with any learning outcomes.

We will not discriminate on the grounds of gender, age, disability, race, beliefs or sexual orientation. We will treat you with respect and dignity
